```
node6 MEM buffers <= 0.774
                                                                        samples = 100.0%
                                                                  value = [0.25, 0.25, 0.25, 0.25]
                                                                          class = normal
                                                                   True
                                                                                            False
                                               node7_VM_nr_mapped <= 0.691
                                                                                           samples = 24.9%
                                                       samples = 75.1\%
                                                                                       value = [0.0, 0.0, 0.0, 1.0]
                                              value = [0.333, 0.333, 0.333, 0.001]
                                                                                           class = input_rate
                                                         class = normal
    driver_DAGScheduler_messageProcessingTime_m15_rate <= 0.332
                                                                                  samples = 24.7\%
                            samples = 50.3\%
                                                                          value = [0.001, 0.0, 0.998, 0.002]
                    value = [0.496, 0.497, 0.006, 0.0]
                                                                                 class = node failure
                             class = normal
         samples = 24.0\%
                                               samples = 26.4%
value = [0.933, 0.053, 0.013, 0.001]
                                        value = [0.099, 0.901, 0.0, 0.0]
                                                 class = normal
      class = cpu_contention
```